Excerpt: . . . An. 1559, did with great firength of Argument and much Modefty, refute the Arguments that were brought againfi the Government of Women. Some may however readily imagine, from the Stile and Language of both the two fir ft Englifh Editions, that they have more of an Englifh than of a Scottifh Writer, efpecially fince he calls himfelf an Englifhman, and that the Language and Thrafeology is fo far different from any Tapers by Bifhop Lefley in his own native Dialect. But Cockyn a Bookfeller in London, and Tr. Good, who was the Bifhops Thyfician and intimate Acquaintance, being fometime after taken into Cuftody, were Jlrilly examined about their Correpondence with Q Mary and the Bifhop, and what they knew of that Book. By their Examinations and ConfeJJlons it appears, that the Bijbop left a Copy of the Defence of her Honour with Dr. Good,...
